ABOUT ME

Jewish wisdom and practice can transform us.

Transformation requires us to become present in mind, body, and spirit. Only then can we invite something within us to change.

Through accessible music, embodied Torah and mindful prayer, I offer insights into our selves and our relationships. I facilitate community connection and participation while opening up fresh, authentic ways of Jewish experience and living.

~ Rabbi Ariel Root Wolpe

Rabbi Wolpe is the founder and director of Ma'alot, a spiritual community in Atlanta transforming lives through music, nature and Jewish wisdom (www.maalotatlanta.com). Wolpe facilitates unconventional Jewish experiences, such as mountain-top High Holiday services and community-led Nigun Circles. Wolpe received rabbinic ordination at Ziegler School of Rabbinic studies and completed a year residency at Hadar's Rising Song Institute.

When she is not performing music or leading community, you can find Wolpe camping, yoga-ing and homesteading with her husband, two daughters and six chickens.

Check out Wolpe's Rising Song album Ruach Neshama on any streaming platform and watch her teachings on TikTok @rabbiimma.

ARTIST RABBI IN RESIDENCE OPTIONS

Thursday Evening Nigun Singing

Ideally in a community member's living room or intimate space, we'll learn ancient melodies and new compositions in the tradition of the nigun that will carry us into Shabbat.

Kabbalat Shabbat in the Round

Off the bimah and close together, we'll build a sacred fire of sound and spirit through our prayers.

Shabbat Morning Service Leading

Integrating nigunim, participatory tunes, and kavanot to lead Pseuke D'zimra and/or Musaf.

Bibliodrama Drash

We'll bring the lived experiences found within Torah back to life through participatory learning, conversation and teaching.

Shabbat Morning Hike

Explore nature found in your own backyard in celebration of Shabbat. Adults and children are invited to gathering in a neighborhood park for a walk through Shabbat morning services, exploring our sacred connection with creation.

Havdalah and Concert

Gather for an evening of music, featuring original compositions by Rabbi Wolpe and band.

Sunday Morning Adult Workshop

Invite your stakeholders and prayer leaders for a morning of community conversation, nature connection, or mindful exploration through music and text study.
